CAPITAL WOMEN TO AID FRENCH ORPHANS

National Committee to Assist in Caring For Them To Be Formed in United States.

Children of France made orphans by the war will receive substantial aid from Washington, if the interest shown in a meeting at Rauscher's yesterday afternoon may be taken as a criterion. Some of the Capital's most prominen romen were present. Addresses were nade by Miss Flerence Schoffeld, late made by Miss Fierence Schofield, late of Paris: Miss Elinor Fell, of London, and responses by Miss Julia Lathrop, head of the children's bureau, and Mrs. Archbald Hopkins, who presided. Miss Schofield, an Englishwoman, who was living in Paris at the time the war broke out, told of the heart-breaking days when the good-byes were being said and of the terrible burden the war is imposing on women and children. "But do not think we are breaking." she said. "We know what the bitter cost is, but we know we shall conquer. We had rather be swept from the face of the earth than live under militarism, for militarism has made of its own country a shambles."

300,000 War Orphans Likely.

'We are willing to work," she con-used, "we are willing to be poor, to make of the children of France men who shall be worthy of their glorious fathers. One of those men came to me tust before he left for the front.
"Before I go, there is but one request I would make of you," he said to me, for we had been friends a long time. "If I fall, will you care for my children?"

children."

"Such is the message I bring to America from your sister republic. France. 'If I fall, will you care for my children." It is not a plea for charity, and there is no sense of shame in it, It is a message that any gallant misn may send to his friend."

It is estimated that there probably will be 200,000 war orphans in France. The government will pay them about 15 cents a day, but to assure their education about 236,50 per child additional annually is necessary.

A French organization, the Orphelina A French organization, the Orphelinat des Armees, is undertaking to care for these children, and a national commit-tee is being named for this country, which will include Mrs. Franklin Roose-velt, Mrs. Franklin K. Fairbanks Declares Acting for Screen Same as Acting on the Stage understood, are about five years old at the outside, and consequently very tender and easily damaged. Douglas Fairbanks is the person accused of breaking the most sacred tradition of the pictures. Young Mr. Fairbanks made quite a success on the stage because he knew how to do something more than simply memorize the lines the author wrote for him. He really acted the part of the character the author had created and used the lines for the exposition of that character when it could not be exposed otherwise or to saist in an acting exposition of it. Hence Mr. Fairbanks became a success on the stage. Then he was engaged by the Triangle Company to play in pictures, and, utilizing exactly the same methods he had used on the stage, except that he spoke no lines his audience could hear, Mr. Fairbanks immediately became a success on the screen as a motion picture actor. And then he proceeded to smash a tradition—THE tradition of the incompetents among the stage because he knew how to proceeded to smash a tradition—THE, tradition of the incompetents among motion picture actors—by declaring that real acting is just the same whether it is done on the stage or before a camera!

"Except for the use of the voice." amounces Mr. Fairbanks, "there is absolutely no difference between citing on the stage and in motion pictures. Acting wherever found is acting. It begins in the heart, is acting. It begins in the heart, is acting. It begins in the heart, is acting by the brain, and expresses itself through the body. I believe that any acting value possible on the dramatic stage can be registered on the screen once the basic fact is understood that acting is acting, whether on the stage or before the camera.

"The prevalence of the spoken line in the theater has led audiences to place too much atreas—to center too much attention upon it. Go into any theater and disregard the lines. You will find that the players are constantly expressing emotion through their bodies. And so it is before the camera. There was a time when the motion picture camera was very imperfect. Then the players went through their parts very slowly. I believe that in the days of the old apparatus to act slowly became a tenet of a school.

"I do not mean to deny that in specific cases there may be reasons for slow setting. But, in general, I believe that the rate of movement used on the dramatic stage gives the best results, whether for comedy or drams. This is but snother point at which it is seen that acting upon the stage and before the camera are bractically the same."

Presbyterian Preacher Opposed to Prohibition

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9 .- Declaring that prohibtion of the liquor traffic is impracticable and that such action is impracticable and that such action deprives citizens of their constitutional rights, the Rev. John S. Young, pastor of the West End Presbyterian Church, startled his fellow ministers at the weekly meeting of Presbyterian clergymen.

"I have said, and now say," went on the Rev. Mr. Young, "that I am not an advocate of prohibition. The saloon today is the destruction of our American citizenship, but prohibition, which is directly against the Constitution of the United States, will never cure the evil.

"Men must be educated to leave liquor alone. No other way will be found, in my opinion, to correct the evil. And unless our Constitution is changed I see no other way to avoid depriving a man of his constitutional rights."

The Treatment of Intluenza or La Grippe

It is quite refreshing these days to read of a clearly defined treatment for Influenza or La Grippe. In an article in the "Lancet-Clinic," Dr. James Bell of New York City, says he is convinced that too much medication is both unnecessary and injurious.

When called to a case of is grippe, the patient is usually seen when the fever is present, as the chill which occasionally ushers in the disease, has generally passed away. Dr. Bell then orders that the bowels be opened freely with saits, "Actoids" or citrate of magnesia. For the high fever, severe headache, pain and general soreness, one Anti-Kamnia Tablet every three hours is quick-y followed by complete relief. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also unexcedled for headaches, neuralgia and all pains—Adyt.

MANN MAY DECLINE TO FILL COMMITTEES

Minority Leader, It Is Declared, Will Throw Choice on Party Members.

That House Minority Leader "Jim" Mann will decline to fill the Republican committee places and will insist on the Republicans of the House undertaking this task themselves, is the information which reached Washington today. If Mr. Mann, takes this course, the House Republicans in caucus will name committee on committee assignments and this committee will proceed to fill the committee places.

It is said to be probable that the Republicans will name a real commit-Republicans will name a real commit-tee on committees. The Democrats in theory have one, but it is made up of the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee. This gives the ways and means Democrats extraordi-nary powers and makes the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee the most powerful single factor in the House.

Another interesting fact concerning most powerful single factor in the House.

Another interesting fact concerning the make-up of the House committees is that the Republicans will demand more positions on committees than they had in the last Congress. In the last Congress, the Republicans had one place to two for the Democrats. But the Republicans in the House are almost as numerous as the Democrats and they will insist that there be nearly as many Republicans on committees as members of the majority party. They will insist on a proportion of about four to five, so that on big committees there will be two fewer Republicans than Democrats, and on small committees one fewer Republican. Just how much the Democrats will concede to the Republicans remains to be seen.

Mann, trough talked of for President, really has his eye out for the Speakership of the next House if it goes Republican. In decilining to mae up the Republican side of the committees, it is asserted he will be playing good politics and will avoid getting himself blamed for any disappointments of ambitious Republicans seeking influential committee assignments.
